Dear Folk Dancer:

On again, off again, Finnigan! Our plans sure keep getting changed around! But as long as we manage to keep dancing, that's what really matters.

Most of you were at the session last Thursday, so you know what the latest arrangement is. We are now going to adhere to the plan originally announced in your bulletin of February 24. In case you've mislaid that bulletin, we'll repeat the gist of it:

"The second semester of the advanced class will be a series of 12 sessions, conducted on a biweekly basis, and starting Thursday, March 19. In other words, starting March 19, sessions will be held every other Thursday, instead of every Thursday. . . .

"At the same time, we will start another beginners' series of 12 sessions. These will commence Thursday, March 26, and will also be conducted on a biweekly basis. Thus, the beginners' sessions will be on the alternate weeks from the advanced sessions. . . .

"When you register for the second semester, you will have the privilege, not only of attending the sessions of the advanced series, but also those of the beginners' series---all for the one registration. In other words, it will be your privilege, as an advanced member, of coming every week---one week to the advanced sessions, and the alternate week to the beginners' sessions."

The above three paragraphs are quoted from the previous bulletin, and this is the plan we will proceed with. Thus, this Thursday, April 2, the advanced class will meet, and our program will pick up from where we left off at the session of March 19. The succeeding sessions of the advanced class will be on April 16 and 30, all at Burkhardt Center.

The beginners' class will have its next sessions on April 9 and 23, also at Burkhardt Center. All sessions of both groups will run from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

We had the impression that everyone had a thoroughly enjoyable time last Thursday. And we hope that you will all plan to come regularly to both the advanced and the beginners' sessions. It really helps, and is a lot more fun for the beginners when we all get out there and dance together.

And remember, if there are any additional prospects that you know of, we'll accept registrations for the beginners' class up to April 9, their next session.
