Ad Vielle Que Pourra & Benoit

Bourque - Based in Quebec, Ad Vielle plays an adventurous blend of music they refer to as "new French folk music." The music is steeped in the historical musical styles of French-speaking Europe and Canada (including dance music from Brittany, Belgium, Paris, Switzerland, and Quebec), played on the traditional instruments of those regions (hurdy-gurdy, accordions, bombarde, foot percussion, guitar, and fiddle). The music is fresh, spontaneous, and a wonderful alchemy of the individual member's backgrounds and influences. The musicians are Daniel Thonon, Gaston Bernard, and Benoit Bourque. Benoit has also been a folk dancer for 22 years, specializing in the traditions of Quebec. Currently he is the artistic director for the dance group, Les Eclusiers de Lachine.

Marilyn Wathen - In 1981, Marilyn began research into the traditional music and dances of France, studying in master dance classes and meeting with traditional musicians and instrument makers (in France). Her repertoire of French dances includes dances of Auvergne, Bearn, Pays Basque, Berry, Limousin, Alsace, and Gascogne. Marilyn has taught throughout the United States and Canada including Stockton Folk Dance Camp, Maine Folk Dance Camp, and at the Conservatoire Occitan in France. Marilyn will be studying in France again in Summer 1995.
